

Election 2016: Democratic Debate

Notes- from JT

Possible Talking Points

Republicans want “shared values.” Democrats want “people they can trust” – is this coded language? And if so, for what?

What’s up with all these polls?

Can the polls be trusted?

How important are these debates?

What’s next? How important is South Carolina, Nevada

Voter Apathy

Will blacks vote in the 2016 Election?

What about Black Republicans?

Media’s role in shaping public opinion

Biased media? Are journalists fair & balanced in election coverage?

Democrats head South

Sanders bkfast with Al Sharpton

http://www.realclearpolitics.com/elections/election_dates/

<http://fivethirtyeight.com/features/it-gets-harder-from-here-for-bernie-sanders/>

<http://www.thenation.com/article/hillary-clinton-does-not-deserve-black-peoples-votes/>

http://www.democracynow.org/2016/2/10/ta_nehisi_coates_is_voting_for?autostart=true

Recent Articles

[Will email this afternoon]

Lower Third Info for Fonts

Host:

Mo Ivory

Attorney/Radio & TV Host

@moivory

Confirmed guests:

Michael Fauntroy, PhD
Associate Professor, Dept. of Political Science
Author, Republicans and the Black Vote
@MKFauntroy

Keneshia Grant, PhD
Assistant Professor, Dept. of Political Science
@KeneshiaGrant

Ron Harris
Editor, Howard University News Service
@Harrisronaldj

Yanick Rice Lamb
Associate Professor/Chair, Department of Media, Journalism and Film
@YRLamb

MJFC Department's Handle:
Dept. of Media, Journalism and Film: @HowardU_MJF

Social Media

Handles:

@WHUT

#WHUTTV

#WHUTElection2016

Can we please push the following on Social Media?

Question: Do you feel included in the 2016 Election?

Question: Are the 2016 candidates speaking to the issues that are important to you?